Live classes: Schedule for February

03.02

Gamifying Your Research Goals: Turning Work into Play

Struggling to stay motivated and on track with your research? Discover how gamification can transform your work into a series of engaging and manageable challenges. In this interactive session, you'll learn the principles of gamification—like setting clear objectives, tracking progress, and building reward systems—and how to apply them to your academic journey.

04.02

Lateral Leadership

Lateral leadership equips early career researchers to influence, collaborate, and move work forward without formal authority in complex academic environments. This session explores practical strategies for navigating power dynamics, aligning diverse stakeholders, and leading through clarity, trust, and shared purpose rather than hierarchy.

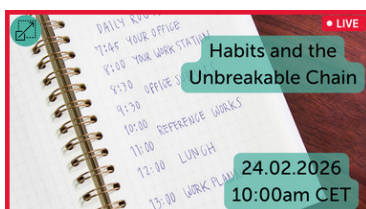

18.02

Design Your Career

Designing your career becomes more intentional when you treat it as a creative, iterative process rather than a single high-stakes decision. This session introduces Life Design tools and practical methods to develop strategies, explore multiple scenarios, and actively shape career paths both within and beyond academia.

24.02

Habits and the Unbreakable Chain

Did you know it takes 66 days to build a habit? In this session we will be discussing about habits, and specifically micro-habits! We'll cover different tips and tricks to help you stick to (micro)habits you have been wanting to integrate into your routine, or to help you break habits that are unhealthy. Join me in this session if this sounds like something for you!

New: Reintroducing the Design Thinking Series (1-3)
"Positioning Yourself for Your Career" in partnership with GSO
